

Radio broadcasters and listeners know what's at stake in the fight against the performance tax.

Thousands could lose their jobs and radio listeners would suffer.

That's why radio and TV broadcasters nationwide have mobilized in an unprecedented, unified effort to defeat this legislation.

And the public is listening.

25,000 letters sent to members of Congress.

21,000 social networking advocates.

40,000 spots aired across the country (even more than you hear from your favorite insurance gecko).

250,000 page views of NoPerformanceTax.org.

In less than three weeks.

That's the power of broadcasting – the largest megaphone in America.

The National Association of Broadcasters thanks stations, listeners and viewers across the country for uniting in the effort to defeat the performance tax. Additional members of Congress continue to join the nearly 300 bipartisan cosponsors of the Local Radio Freedom Act – to keep radio free.

Standing together, our message is heard loud and clear.
Join the fight to keep radio free.
