

WHAT IS THE FUTURE OF BROADCAST TV?

The future of broadcast TV is bringing you breaking local news coverage in the palm of your hand. So, while you're sipping coffee on your morning commute, you're also getting headline news focused solely on your community. But that's not all. There are new channels, more of your favorite shows and the highest quality HDTV – for free!

Your favorite local television stations are innovating for the future, and viewers are just beginning to realize the full potential of digital TV. But there are some in Washington, D.C., that want to limit television's ability to innovate.

Find out what the future of TV holds and what you can do to ensure the government doesn't prevent you from getting all the new services and channels available with digital television.

Visit www.TheFutureofTV.org.

