

YOU KNOW A BAD ACTOR WHEN YOU SEE ONE ...

Some pay TV companies would like to make Congress think the retransmission consent system is broken. But the only thing not working is the bad actors – the pay TV companies charging customers big money and not delivering their favorite content.

Some pay TV companies are seeking unnecessary government intervention to avoid compensating local TV stations for their highly-rated programming.

When bad actors win, viewers lose. Viewers deserve to get the local news and great shows they're paying for.

Pay TV needs to negotiate in good faith and stop playing politics with American viewers.

Visit www.KeepMyTV.org to learn more.

